

From: wingheart5
To: wingheart5
Subject: Fwd: This is the note from the fan
Date: Thu, Jan 3, 2013 10:43 am

-----Original Message-----

From: Karen Faye [REDACTED]
To: TOOKIE [REDACTED]
Sent: Sat, Jun 20, 2009 10:59 am
Subject: This is the note from the fan

Frank...unfortunately she is right.
I am fearful he will make him self so sick he will die. If he doesn't do this show he has no where else to go...

>

> Marika sent you a message.

>

> -----

> Subject: Met MJ last week and worried.

>

> Hello Karen,

> I'm gonna try to make this one short but I don't know if I will be able to..

>

> Last week, I was in LA with a friend to see Michael. We got really lucky and Michael kindly invited us both on the set of the 3D thriller/ ghosts thing.

> My friend had made a jacket for him. He was dressed with white pants, really thigh, and white shirt, really thight too. He had a red small jacket on.

> I told Michael to try it because as he became really thin, we were afraid it wouldn't fit.

> He took his jacket off and I saw something horrible. A skeleton. I watched his back. It was only bones. I am still in shock. And my best friend too.

> We knew he was skinny. But we were always seeing him with a jacket on or a large top. But as he was dressed this day, was as if he was naked and we saw how awful it was.

>

> We don't know if he is anorexic and stop eating as he told us, or if it's something more complicated than that, a disease or something else.

>

> Butin the case he just stopped eating, here is what I want to tell you:

>

> If we do nothing, he will die. And it's a natural logic.

>

> I know people who work for him can not tell him anything and even if they do, he wont listen.

> I know his own family tried to help him but he won't listen.

>

> But I also know that it is humanly impossible for a human being to > be a skeleton and dance for 2 hours straight without any danger.

> I know he is rehearsing so much and I don't understand how he does > that. People outside the forum tell us : he's doing great!
> But how can it be naturally possible, I mean, by the laws of physics > that he is doing great?
> Please.
>
> So here are my questions:
>
> Are you all worried about this but can't make anything cause anyway > he won't listen? Or people see him everyday and didn't realize he > had bcome a skeleton?
>
> Do I have to mind my own business because he is followed by the > tenth best doctor of the world?
>
> Let's be honest:
> No one who works for Michael can force him to do something.
> No one from his family can do something.
> No one from his security will do anything. They barely talk to him.
>
> Only the fans can.
>
> If I send you this mail, it's because I made a lot of thinking. You > are the only one who loves Michael as much as we do and don't only > think about the job. Only you is close to Michael and love him.
> Only you can tell me: "DO SOMETHING, WE CANT"
>
> I send you this email because if something happens to him after 10 > or 20 shows, I don't want to think all my life: I knew it would > happen and I did nothing. I have been selfish and wanted to see the > shows.
>
> I don't want this to happen, and I really don't think I'm being a > drama queen. I've been following Michael for 15 years, have been in > santa maria for court everyday, been to neverland and I saw Michael > at the worst.
> But not so close to the danger. He is in danger.
>
> Just tell me if I can sleep at night, or if I have to keep this > horrible feeling that if Michael dies, I will feel responsible my > entire life.
>
> God bless you for your honest answer and please forgive me if you > think this message is innapropriate.
>
> Marika
> [REDACTED]
> -----
>
>
>
>